MISSING MAN FOUND.

Reported Robbery of Cash Register. Salem, Ore., Sept. 11.—A boy, finding a cash register, rifled of its contents, under a spruce tree on the state house grounds, made the following report to the police:

"Cash register robbed; somebody done it. It's on the state house grounds."

There was a great scurrying around. W. M. Plimpton, secretary of the state printing board, was asked by one of his children to find the thief. He worked hard to solve the mystery, as did other state house employees, but all to no effect.

The police learned that the cash register belonged to the boy who found it. It was a Christmas present. He admitted that he had abstracted the pennies which had been given him for "being good" and hidden the cash register under the tree. No one was arrested, but probably something happened that was a great deal more serious—to a little boy.

fit his health. When his wife heard of the death she collapsed, but recovered later and is now said to be bearing up well. She is staying at the St. James on Long Island.

Adolph Kline, president of the board of aldermen, and a republican, becomes acting mayor.

Mayor Gaynor expected to remain but a short time in England, depending rather on two voyages across the Atlantic than a stay aboard to benefit him.

When notified of his nomination on September 3, the mayor was too weak to speak and his acceptance was read for him. Following the nomination ceremonies he threw himself into a chair murmuring: "I'm tired out, I'm tired out."

SNOBBISH TREATMENT OF GIRLS HELD TO BLAME.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 11.—The snobbish treatment given her by the sorority girls if the girls' high school, where she was a pupil is ascribed as the cause of the unexplained disappearance of 15-year-old Georgia Cameron, who is said to be a girl of exceptional beauty. She left her home for school last Monday morning waving her hands to her mother who stood at a window. From that time she has been gone.

Mrs. Cameron said that her daughter had been profoundly depressed by the slights of sorority members of the school. An incident that occurred recently had hurt the girl sorely. It happened when a certain teacher the name of the girl who sat by her. The girl was Georgia Cameron. The sorority girl, as the daughter related to her mother, Mrs. Cameron, answered the teacher's question with a toss of the head, saying she did not know, for they had never been introduced.

"The snobbish spirit of many of the girls at the high school should be stamped out," said Mrs. Cameron. "Georgia was of a sensitive, rather nervous disposition and the treatment given upon her mind I can not say it directly caused her to run away, for I don't know that it did, but that it may have disturbed her mental balance, I feel, may be only too true."

with the wild west germs that he has contributed his very best brand of goods, the exact type of weather for which the citizens of Pendleton have been hoping these many weeks. The sky is like a turquoise canopy, the air has a balminess that is delightful and the sun is smiling down with just enough warmth to rob the autumn air of its frost.

The crowd here has already assumed the proportions of the enormous and every hour sees hundreds added to it. The trains last night and tonight this morning, special and regular, have each carried their burden of humanity into the city and thousands more will be here tonight and tomorrow. And yet despite the unprecedented influx the visitors are being cared for as they arrive. Director Tatom and his assistants have not only furnished beds to all who have applied but have many left for those yet to arrive.

185 Contestants.

When the entry books were closed last night there were 171 contestants signed up for the various events, and to enable a party of Union and Walla Walla to enter. The list now totals 185 and in the number are the best cowboy and cowgirl riders and ropers that the west has produced. Among the last to sign up was Jason Stanley, famous for his "drunken rides." He has been advertised as the great attraction at the Walla Walla wild west show, but bucked over the traces when the management of that new-born show sought to bind him to a contract that would prevent him from riding here. He has entered a half dozen entries and announces his intention of trying for the all-around cowboy championship.

Another performer who bids fair to become popular with the grandstand is Darrell Cannon, the 12-year-old buckaroo from the John Day country. His riding is really in a class with that of some of the seasoned veterans.

The body was removed to Cookery & Cantonwine's chapel, but no funeral arrangements have yet been made.

CAUGHT PEERING IN WINDOWS, MAN ARRESTED.

WALLA WALLA, Sept. 11.—A man giving his name as W. Elliott was arrested on Whitman street at 10:15 last night and booked at the police station as a "proowler" having been caught by Gus Aiken and H. C. Bryson after a chase in which one shot was fired by Aiken, the shot halting Elliott. It was reported that the bullet had hit Elliott but he stated the wound on his forehead is the result of his being hit over the head with the gun.

Bryson and Aiken who live near Mrs. Lorton say they saw a man peeping into the windows of the house occupied by Mrs. S. M. Lorton and family on Whitman street and gave chase. The man they caught gave the name of Elliott. He was in his stocking feet. This he explained by saying that he was taking a shortcut to his home which was in that vicinity and in running from the two men he lost his shoes.

Elliott had a bank book and offered to give bail, but it was refused and he was locked up in the woman's ward. He is an elderly man and said to be a farmer.

WELL-TO-DO INDIAN IN NEED.

Poor L. O. Restraind From Selling Land, Sees Wife Suffer. ABERDEEN, Wash., Sept. 11.—Although Joseph Capoean, a full-blood Quinault Indian is worth at least $5000 he is forced to seek relief from the government in order to send his wife, who is dying of cancer, to a sanitarium. Capoean is restrained from selling his land on the Quinault Indian reservation by government order. A telegram sent to the Indian department and the congressional delegation was unavailing.

There is promise of oil in the reservation, says the Indian department's report, and the Great White Father will guard his children's interests closely until such time as the oil theory is proved or exploded.

Another Case Against Diggs.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 11.—In opening the government's case against Maury T. Diggs and Attorney C. B. Harris, charged in Federal Judge Van Fleet's court with conspiring to suborn a jury, special prosecutor Sullivan told the jury what he expects to prove. He who would acquire fame must remunerate the press agent.

"Ask Me" Badges Appreciated.

Immediately upon their arrival the Round-up visitors began to express their appreciation of the "Ask Me" badges worn by members of the Commercial club and patriotic Pendletonians. The badges were ordered printed by the reception committee and were distributed yesterday to every one who could be reached. They are one of the greatest conveniences for the visitors for they point out the persons from whom information can be obtained in the shortest time.

Aberdeen Resident, Lost for Week, Turns Up in Seattle. ABERDEEN, Wash., Sept. 11.—Nels Hamreus, missing since last Thursday, has been found in Seattle and will reach his home soon, according to a telegram received by Mrs. Hamreus.

Hamreus was found in a bicycle repair shop in the Elliot Bay city by a younger son, who sent the dispatch to his mother. The telegram did not give details and Mrs. Hamreus does not know whether her husband has been with friends or strangers. She cannot account for his habits other than that he was stricken with a temporary aberration.

OFFICIALS INSPECT COMPANY'S HOLDINGS.

FREEWATER, Ore., Sept. 11.—Monday afternoon a special car brought S. C. Mitchell of New York city, chairman of the directorate of the American Power & Light company; J. S. Taylor, president of the company; Guy W. Talbot, president of the Pacific Power and Light company; J. F. Davidson, manager; D. F. McGee, chief engineer; John Lang, chief counsel of the board; C. E. Walters, general manager, and E. C. Miller, traffic manager of the Walla Walla Valley Railway company, to Freewater to inspect the holdings in this vicinity. They are making a tour of inspection of all properties of the American Power & Light company in the northwest.

CORRAL DUST.

"I knew there would have to be a 13 in it some place," said Jan Bermond, champion cowgirl, and fancy rider as she drew the entry number 130.

"There's the only animal I ever saw that I'd bet my pile on that no man in the world can ride," was the tribute paid to Sharkey, the Belgrade bucking bull, by Roy Raley, former president of the Round-up.

Harry Brennan, two-time winner at the Cheyenne frontier show, was inspecting the Round-up stock at the barns and corals. When he took a look at the three-foot horns of the Texan steers he whistled in surprise. "It's some sight to see a cowboy drop from his horse onto a pair of horns like those," said some one to him. "Yes," said the big buckaroo, "I'll bet it is, but take it from me I'm not damn fool enough yet to try it."

"Skeeter Bill" Robbins and his partner, John Robbins, are the Mutt and Jeff of the cowboy brigade. "Skeeter" reaches an altitude of about six feet and is long drawn out, while "Dob" is a chunk of a buckaroo not much taller than he is broad.

"That horse may be a bigger joke than I am, but he ain't any longer one," said "Skeeter Bill," the elongated rider, when they brought out a bad one for him to ride.

On Tuesday and Wednesday Round-up park was closed to spectators in deference to the Umatilla county fair which was holding afternoon programs in its pavilion. One man, who has bought a ticket for the three-day show and who was turned away from the gate Tuesday afternoon, was

COMPANY OFFICER JAILED.

David C. Norcross Sentenced for Refusal to Produce Books. SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 11.—Rather than surrender the books of the Western Fuel company to Judge Doelling of the United States district court David C. Norcross, secretary of the company, surrendered to the United States marshal. Judge Doelling held him in contempt and sentenced him to jail until such time as the books be produced.

A $2,000 bond was furnished and Norcross was released. At the conclusion of the proceedings Attorney Knight said he would carry the fight for the retention of the books to the United States supreme court if necessary.

JUDGE LAWLOR TO MARRY.

Bachelor at 58 Disappoints Critics Who Thought Habit Fixed. SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 11.—It became known that Judge William F. Lawlor, one of San Francisco's supposed confirmed bachelors, is engaged to marry Miss Mary Lee Henry, daughter of Gustavus G. Henry, now of San Diego, but for many years prominent in Chillicothe, Mo. The wedding probably will take place just before Christmas.

Judge Lawlor presided over the graft trials of Schmitz and Abe Ruef and gained a national reputation because of his efforts to bring to trial President Calhoun and prominent officers of the United Railroads for part in $200,000 bribe given to the San Francisco supervisors to obtain a trolley franchise just after the earthquake and big fire.

very wrath and he steamed his way back to the ticket office to cash in his tickets. He thought the tryouts was one of the regular performances and that the gatekeeper wouldn't honor his pastboard.

Though not in the same class as Sharkey, Henry Vogt has such a reputation as a bucking bull that not many cowboys care to mount him. At the last tryout he was brought into the arena, and after all of the buckaroos had refused him one by one he was started back for the barns. Just about that time George Fletcher, the negro boy, appeared on the scene and offered to ride him. Money was bet freely that the colored buckaroo wouldn't stick and those who knew George best took the money. He rode him to the last jump.

One of the principal pastimes of the cowboy during the tryouts is to bet that rider will or will not be thrown. If the rider is a particularly good one the bet is generally made he will or will not ride the horse straight up, or that he will or will not pull leather. If the horse happens to be Long Tom they bet on the number of jumps it will take to unseat the buckaroo.
